SCHNEIDER STRANGLED.

The Brutal Murdorer of Young Servant Girls

10SES HIS NERVE ON THE SCAFFOLD

and Struggles With the Executioners-The Bungling Manner in Which He Was Executed Makes a Shocking Scene-Witnesses Turn Their Eyes from the Sickening Sight-The Executioner Wore a Dress Suit, Kid Gloves and a Silk Hat.

VIENNA, March 17 .- Though the trial of the Schneiders-Franz and Rosaliefor the murder of servant girls attracted to the court room such crowds as have seldom been equalled in number at any trial ever held here, the execution of the man this morning seemed to excite but little interest. At half-past 6 o'clock a small crowd collected outside the gloomy law courts. They could see nothing of the execution. All the approaches to the building were strongly guarded and the court yards were filled with military. The gallows upon which executions take place in other countries was conspicuous by its absence. In its stead a broad white stake was firmly imstead a broad white stake was army in-bedded in the ground in an angle of the court. The stake was surmounted by a arge spike. A detachment of military formed a cordon a short distance from the stake. Their duty was to keep back the eighty privileged spectators of the execution.

These consisted of officials, barristers and reporters. At 7 o'clock Segfried, the executioner, with his assistants, entered the court yard. He was followed by the judges, before whom Schneider and his wife had been tried, and a number of the highest officials. Then came Schneider, his strong frame trembling ach his fore ghostly role. His features Schneider, his strong frame trembling and his face ghastly pale. His features had lost their look of repulsive ferocity and by his every manner the man who strangled with his strong hands weak and defenceless girls showed that his brutal nature was subdued and that he was in an agony of fear at the fate agaiting him. He was attended by a priest who sought to administer the consolation of religion to him, but schneider's mind was dazed with fear, and it is doubtful if he heard, or at least understood, what was being said.

When the condemned man had reached a point in front of the stake when the contemned man had reached a point in front of the stake the executioner, who were a high silk hat, fine ciothing and kid gloves, stepped up to him and dexterously pinioned his hands. The executioner's assistants, who were two horse slaughterers, then seized Schneider and placed him directly in front of the stake. The condirectly in front of the stake. The con-demned man was lifted from the ground, and a fearful scene followed. Schneider and a learnite scene followed. Schnigder immediately kicked his legs in every direction and tried frantically to escape from the grasp of the brawny men who had him, but his efforts were useless, and then he shricked, "Oh, no, in God's name; I'll say anything."

This scene did not last long, however, its Sectrical washed up a set of store.

This scene did not last long, however, for Segfried rushed up a set of steps that stood behind the stake and threw the free end of the silken loop which was attached to the stake around Schneider's throat, in fact lassoing him as he was held alott by the assistants. No black cap was used, the executioner making his hands to do duty in its stead. As the noose, passed around Schneider's neek the two horse slaughterers dropped him. Segfried pressed his left hand heavily over the jaw an got hold of the victim, while with his right hand he covered the forehead and eyes. At the same time forehead and eyes. At the same time the assistants grasped the hanging man by his arms and legs and pulled downby his arms and legs and putted downward with all their strength. Held in this position Schneider was unable to move and he was strangled to death. The doctors in attendance say that he was dead in four minutes.
The face of the dying man could be seen between the fingers of the executioner and every change in the color of the flesh was discernable. It was a hor-rible sight and many of spectators were compelled to turn away

After Schneider had been suspended for five minutes Segfrield who; during the whole scene, was perfectly cool, wice laid his ear against Schneider's face, until he was convinced that the #### English Miners to Resume Work.

LONDON, March 17 .- After a long die cussion of the question whether the stoppage of work should continue for a week or for a fortnight, the delegates to a conference of the, miners' federation unanimously adopted a resolution de-claring that in view of the fact that the object for which the pits had been stopped had been achieved the confer-ence advises the miners to resume work on Monday. The conference will next consider the number of days in a week the men shall work.

The Ponchers Hanged.

LONDON, March 17.—The appeals made to the Right Hon. Henry Matthews, the home secretary, to grant a reprieve in home secretary, to grant a reprieve in the case of Charles Ray and Frederick Eggleston, the peachers who were condemned to death for the killing of two gamekeepers at Pittstone, were of no avail, and consequently the two men were hanged at Oxford at So'clock this norming. Both men were calm and they remeded in forward tongs the remorning. Both men were calm and they repeated in forvent tones the re-sponses to the service read by the cap-tain of the Jail. At the signal the drog fell, and death was almost instantane-

BUILD UP THE NAVY

Secretary Tracy Shows the Noel of More Craft-We Are Able to Have Them. New York, March 17 .- The report with which Chairman Herbert, of the housecommittee on naval affairs accompanies the naval appropriation bill deprecates the suggestion of any additional battle ships in view of fact that the Bethlehem and the Carnegie plants will not be able to supply the needed armor plate. "I do not agree with Mr. Herbert," said Secretary Tracy emphatically yes-terday, "We need the battle ships and said Secretary Tracy emphatically yesterday. "We need the battle ships and they ought to be built. More than that, when the armor is needed it will be ready. Both the Bethlehem and Carnegie works have been perfecting their plants and by the first day of July the two will be able to turn out 700 tons of armor a month. This will enable us to continue the work uninterruptedly and at the end of two years they will have furnished all the armor needed for the ships now in process of construchave furnished all the armor needed for the ships now in process of construc-tion. If, now, Congress will make an appropriation for one or more battle ships the plants will be in condition to supply their plates by the time this stage of work shall have been reached. "Suppose, Mr. Secretary, that Con-gress refuses to vote you the money for one or more battle ships, don't you think it ought to give you an appropria-tion for some smaller and inexpensive tion for some smaller and inexpensive and at the same time, much needed craft?"

eraft?"

"Yes, Congress certainly ought to do that," responded the secretary. "If we cannot get a battle ship or two, we ought to have an appropriation for ten new torpedo boats. Such boats are valuable in time of war. They cost comparatively little, and the expense of keeping them in commission is relatively small. Heretofore we have not built torpedo boats because we had no torpedoes to put in them. Now, we torpedoes to put in them. Now, we have the torpedoes, and the next thing necessary is the boats."
"What could you build ten of these boats for?"

boats for?"

"If congress should authorize the construction of ten torpedo boats, they could be built at an average cost of $90,000 each. One million dollars would certainly cover the entire outlay. I should favor, if possible, allowing the ship building along the lakes and in the Mississippi valley and elsewhere to contract for them. That scatters the money over a greater area of country and lebs.

over a greater area of country and helps to build up the intercourse.

"Then too, we ought to have a few small gun bonts, such as were recom-mended in my last annual report for river service in foreign waters."

A STEAMBOAT FIRE

Causes a Panic Among the Passengers. One Lady Dies from Fright.

CINCINNATI, O., March 17 .- The steamer Guiding Star on her way up from New Orleans caught fire this morning while passing Lawrenceburg, 25 miles below here. The fire was found to be in some cotton in the hold. The boat was headed into the Kentucky shore where the fire was soon extinguished. But the fire caused the most intense ex-citement among the lady passengers. One of them, Mrs. Belle Shadinger, of this city, who had an affection of the heart, was seized with a spasm and died before the boat reached the Lawrenceburg wharf.
